COLOR OF PASSION

Colombian-born artist Gus Ocamposilva's world revolves around passion. "I can not imaging a world without colors, without people living for a passion in the things they do." He says.

Internationally known for his large metal sculptures and expansive murals. Ocamposilva, a Tampa resident, has build a reputation with works rich with vibrant hues and shapes.

In his latest project, he uses the human body as his canvas. Ocamposilva brings to light issues concerning global warming, pollution and water conservation through life "sculptures."

"I want to tell people in a way that has never used before how to change our behavior with the planet."

- Stephen Brown
